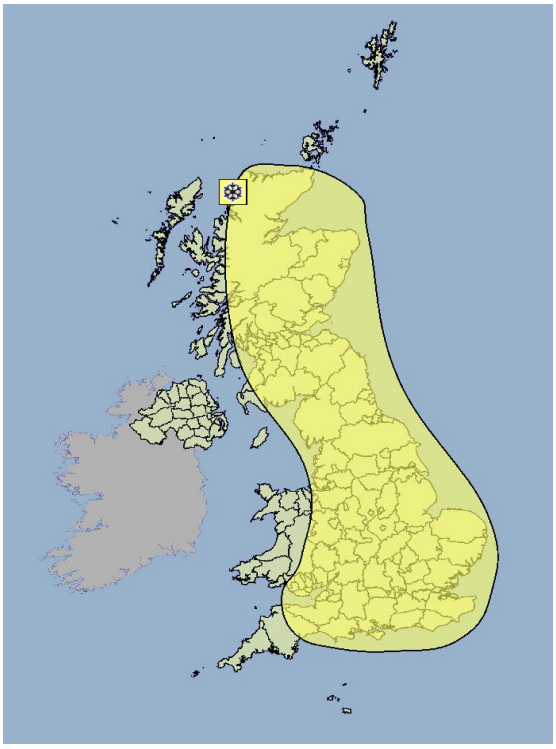
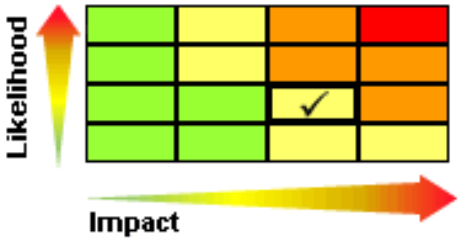
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Further snow showers are expected through Tuesday, with the potential for a more organised band of snow to push south-west across many parts of England and Wales through the day. There is uncertainty in the extent of snow. However, there is the potential for 5-10 cm of snow in places where showers become more frequent, or in association with the more persistent band of snow. Nearby locations may see much less snow and only small accumulations of 0-2 cm in places.

Strong winds will lead to drifting of lying snow, with lightning an additional hazard, particularly near North Sea coasts.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Snow

Valid from 00:05 on Tue, 27th Feb 2018 until 23:55 on Tue, 27th Feb 2018

Snow showers or longer periods of snow are expected on Tuesday.

There is the potential for travel delays on roads, with some stranded vehicles and passengers, as well as delays or cancellations to rail and air travel. Some rural communities could become cut off. Power cuts may also occur and other services, such as mobile phones, may be affected.
